

ASU's Strategic International Partner Institutions

The following institutions are strategic international partners for Arizona State University. Faculty members proposing programs in the countries where these institutions are located are encouraged to consider leveraging the relationships ASU has. Please work with your International Coordinator to explore opportunities as relevant for your program.

Ben Guiron University (Israel)

Capital University of Economics and Business (China)

Dublin City University (Ireland)

Guangdong University of Foreign Studies (China)

Kings College London (United Kingdom)

National Central University (Taiwan)

Seoul National University (South Korea)

Sichuan University (China)

Tec de Monterrey (Mexico)

University of Guadalajara (Mexico)

University of New South Wales (Australia)

Woosong University (South Korea)